Overpopulation the greatest lie, says activist

BINTULU: The greatest lie in the 20th century is that our world is 'overpopulated,' hence the urge to control population, said Dr Rene Josef Bullecer, a prominent pro-life activist from the Human Life International Association Philippines.

Rene, who is a doctor with special training on HIV medication said this during a talk at the St Anthony Catholic Church here on Thursday night.

He said the media were trying to influence the society into believing that the world is overpopulated and that population all over the world need to be controlled, hence the introduction and encouragement of various contraception methods, birth controls, and worse, abortion.

During the talk, he presented findings by the World Health Organisation that millions of babies are being killed via abortion each year, and that it needed to be stopped.

He also cited several problems that can occur should the world continued to encourage population control, presenting charts of possible decrease in human population.

In the Catholic doctrine, contraception and abortion are contrary to natural law.
