SUB-SAHARA HAS HIGHEST NEW HIV INFECTION RATE
CAPE TOWN: New HIV infections urgently need to be reduced in Sub-Saharan Africa, organisers said Saturday at the opening of the African AIDS conference. Seven of 10 of those newly infected live south of the Sahara, warned Luis Sambo, WHO's regional director for Africa. Singer and activist Annie Lennox told the conference it was "unacceptable that 1,000 women become infected with HIV in Sub-Saharan Africa every single day". - dpa
