Beauty muses to keep an eye on this season

SUMMER is almost over, but while we're sad to be packing away our shades, it does mean a whole new round of fresh, celebrity-filled fall beauty campaigns to look forward to. Here are the women we'll be watching this season.

Cate Blanchett for Giorgio Armani

Hollywood star Cate Blanchett is set to continue her role as the face of the Giorgio Armani fragrance Si with a new campaign set to launch on Sept 13. Created by the Iranian-American director Massy Tadjedin and filmed in the actress's native Australia, the campaign aims to depict a strong, passionate and accomplished woman.

Kendall Jenner for Estee Lauder

Kendall Jenner's meteoric rise from reality TV sister to catwalk queen and fashion icon was confirmed at the end of 2014 when she was snapped up by luxury French beauty house Estée Lauder. The model has since released the limited edition lippy Pure Color Envy Matte Sculpting Lipstick for the group and earlier this summer hinted at a new campaign with the cosmetics brand when she posted two photos to her Instagram page with the simple caption "w/ @esteelauder." One of the autumnal shots shows her lying facedown on a bed covered with blankets, wearing a cami top and lacy underwear.

Miley Cyrus for MAC

Singer Miley Cyrus kicked off her collaboration with MAC in January this year with a pink lipstick and gloss for the brand's charitable VIVA Glam line. She recently revealed the first shots for her second launch with the group on her Instagram account, encouraging her followers to join the fight against AIDS by purchasing the new deep red hue, set to hit stores in the US on Sept 8.

Caroline de Maigret for Lancôme

Author, model, street style icon and generally perfect Parisian Caroline de Maigret has collaborated with Lancôme on a second makeup collection made up of all her fall essentials. Designed for busy women on the go who want to channel that elusive strain of French elegance, the collection launches this autumn, starting in France on Aug 24.

Candice Swanepoel for Biotherm

South African model Candice Swanepoel was revealed as the new ambassador for French skin-care brand Biotherm mid-summer, starring in the group's gorgeous summer 2015 Blue Therapy campaign shot by Gilles Bensimon in St Barths. The Victoria's Secret Angel is set to continue the collaboration by appearing in European and Asian campaigns for the L'Oréal-owned brand, and we can't wait to see her upcoming work. - Relaxnews
